

BAHALI INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY STATEMENT

Last Updated: December 27, 2025

All content, materials, and creative assets produced by Bahali (“we,” “our,” or “us”) are protected by copyright, trademark, and other applicable intellectual property laws. This includes all digital and printed materials created for children, teens, adults, seniors, parents, educators, community leaders, and organizations.

1. Ownership of Content

Unless otherwise stated, Bahali owns all rights to:

- Coping guides (children, teens, adults, seniors)
- Emotional well-being worksheets and printables
- Illustrations and graphics
- Toolkit content and diagrams
- Training materials and facilitator guides
- Branding elements (logo, icons, color palette, slogans, typography)
- Website content, text, layout, and structure
- Multimedia materials (images, promotional graphics, mockups)
- Community Healing Toolkit resources
- Disaster emotional support materials
- Radio, press, and outreach content created by Bahali

All rights are reserved.

2. Permitted Use

Bahali encourages the use of our materials for non-commercial, community-centered purposes, including:

- Personal use
- Family use
- Classroom support
- Community workshops
- School, church, and nonprofit programs
- Clinical education and general mental well-being support

You may:

- Download and print Bahali resources for personal or community use
- Share unmodified Bahali materials with proper credit
- Use Bahali worksheets in community outreach programs
- Include Bahali tools in training sessions with acknowledgment

3. Restrictions on Use

To protect the integrity of our mission and materials, you may not:

- Sell, resell, or license Bahali content
- Modify, alter, or recreate materials for commercial distribution
- Rebrand Bahali tools as your own
- Upload Bahali content to other websites without permission
- Remove Bahali logos, attribution lines, or branding
- Use Bahali resources in programs that conflict with our values of dignity, cultural respect, and community care

Commercial use of Bahali's content is strictly prohibited without written consent.

4. Requests for Permission

Organizations, agencies, schools, and partners seeking to:

- Translate materials
- Adapt worksheets
- Incorporate resources into formal programs
- Integrate Bahali tools into publications
- Use content in grant-funded initiatives
- Include Bahali materials in paid trainings

Must obtain prior written approval.

To request permission, please contact:

contact@bahali.org

5. Trademarks

“Bahali,” the Bahali logo, taglines (including “Because every mind deserves peace”), icons, and other brand elements are trademarks or service marks of Bahali.

Unauthorized use of Bahali branding is not permitted.

6. Respect for Cultural Intellectual Property

Bahali’s resources include imagery, language, and concepts inspired by Caribbean culture and community healing traditions. These are shared with respect and should not be extracted, commercialized, or misrepresented outside of Bahali’s mission.

7. Reporting Intellectual Property Concerns

If you believe Bahali content has been misused, improperly copied, or used without authorization, please notify us at:

contact@bahali.org

8. Updates to This Statement

Bahali may update this Intellectual Property Statement as needed. The “Last Updated” date reflects the most recent revision.