

BAHALI NONPROFIT

TRANSPARENCY STATEMENT

At Bahali, transparency is a core part of how we build trust with the children, families, communities, and partners we serve. As a mission-driven nonprofit, we are committed to operating with honesty, accountability, and integrity in every aspect of our work.

Our Commitment to Transparency

1. Clear Mission & Purpose

Bahali exists to provide culturally grounded emotional well-being resources to support individuals, families, and communities—especially after natural disasters and periods of adversity. Our programs, partnerships, and financial decisions always align with this mission.

2. Responsible Stewardship of Resources

We are mindful that every donation, grant, or contribution reflects trust in our work. Bahali manages all funds with care, directing resources toward program development, community support tools, outreach, and sustainable impact.

3. Financial Accountability

Bahali maintains accurate financial records and complies with all legal and regulatory requirements for nonprofit organizations. When applicable, annual filings, reports, and organizational updates will be made available upon request.

4. Ethical Partnerships

We collaborate with organizations, schools, ministries, and community groups that share our values of dignity, compassion, and cultural respect. Partnerships are chosen based on their alignment with Bahali's mission and commitment to community well-being.

5. Privacy & Confidentiality

We safeguard the personal information of everyone who interacts with Bahali. We do not sell, trade, or misuse personal data. Our privacy practices reflect our commitment to dignity and respect.

6. Program Integrity

All Bahali resources—including coping guides, toolkits, workshops, and training materials—are developed with evidence-informed practices, cultural relevance, and the needs of Caribbean families in mind. We are transparent about what our tools are—and what they are not. They supplement, but do not replace, mental health or medical treatment.

7. Community-Centered Feedback

We welcome questions, suggestions, and feedback from the individuals and communities we serve. Listening to those with lived experience helps us strengthen our programs and remain accountable to our mission.

OUR PROMISE

Bahali is built on compassion, trust, and care. We are committed to openly sharing how we work, how we allocate resources, and how we measure our impact—so that every supporter and community partner can feel confident in the integrity of our mission.
